Q: Can a Certified Nurse Aide (CNA) feed more than one resident at a time?

A: We cannot find a regulation that would prohibit this. It will depend on the level of assistance that each resident requires. Staff need to also consider potential infection control issues when going from one resident to the other. Dignity must also be considered during the meal.